The user got better the more they did it.
The Learning Constant was below .5 so they most likely learned slower than average
The only strategy I noticed was they looked mostly just at the keyboard.